§ SYMBOLISM

Ravanan is a Guix-allied project that brings Guix to the Common Workflow Language.

The name «ravanan» comes from the mythical ten-headed king of Lanka. His ten heads are his most iconic and immediately recognized feature. The logotype uses the concept of ten heads (or minds) circling a common center to represent parallel computing.

At the center of the wheel of heads there is the Guix wildebeest head to indicate ravanan's important relation to the Guix project.

The font used in the logo is MuseoModerno, by MuseModerno project. It was chosen because its rounded shapes complement well the design of the ten-head wheel.
